СЛАЧ GЕёЯdЗS'
СФМАУ ШОУ
~Я не знáю где ваш багаж!!
P.DALEY. © 1975
Y'KNOW, I HAVE THE FEELING THAT THIS NEW GUY IS GOING TO GET THIS COMIC STRIP INTO MORE TROUBLE THAN ALL THE REST OF US COMBINED.
КОНЕЧНО! -IS HIS JOB!

COMIX WORLD 67. Copyright Clay Geerdes, 915 Indian Rock Rd., Berkeley, CA 94707. World Rights Reserved. March 1, 1977. Logo by Pat Daley, whose strip about Lenin ran in the Berkeley BARB during 1976 and outraged a lot of campus Trots & Leninists. C'est la vie! Somebody do me a great Carter logo. It's lampoon time in old Berkeley. * March 19 and 20 are the days to go up to the Good Times House (2524 Market St., I think) and see the art and the artists. Folks like Guy Colwell, Larry Todd, Trina, Jay Kinney & many others will be on hand to discuss their work and sign the new books. Just what you've always wanted, right? A signed first edition of Young Lust 5? And if you're not a groupie, you can watch the belly dancers and get horny. Last ish, I mentioned a big fat collection of erotica called WET DREAMS; well, it's $22.00 pp from Last Gasp, address down yonder by that panel from Guy Colwell's Inner City Romance 3, an amazing study of prison fantasy life, based in part, no doubt, on the artist's time served at McNeil Island. Colwell resisted the draft and pulled a couple of years back in the late sixties. Some of his oils will be on display at the open house on the 19th. * Rip Off Press has not one, but two volumes of Fat Freddy's Cat for you feline freaks. Both are $1.05 pp from them, P. O. Box 14158, San Francisco, CA 94114. (and would you believe Rip Off's president, Fred Todd, whipped me two more games of ping pong!) * Old Doc Stanley, long time funnyman & ug press writer, has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter in Santa Rosa. Doc told me the story at Vito's a few months ago. He said it was self-defense. I believed him, but that jury didn't. * Isn't Wizards the worst? What a bore and a drag. Fragments of every animated cartoon you've ever seen sewn together like the pieces of Frankenstein. "Borrowings" from everyone from Bodé to Niño to Disney, which isn't so bad because comics are a borrowing business, but it's not a kick, certainly not adult in any way. I saw that lame Wizard, Avatar as a cross between Mr. Natural and Yosemite Sam with a voice like George Burns. Eleanor isn't so much a Bodé broad as she is a bloated Tinker Bell. Like in The Wizard of Oz, 4 characters set out to see the evil Wizard. Lots of Peter Pan & other Disney stuff crammed in to draw it out to a feature, but Wizards drags. It has neither ethic nor aesthetic. I did like Mike Ploog's drawings. You know, the Trekkies--I went over to Civic auditorium to Space Con 3 Feb 11-13--applauded their heads off when Bob Wilkins played the Wizards trailor & there's a reason--all the best footage was in it. Watching all of it was like wading thru a dollar DC comic. Don't send me your lists of Bodé swipes. One thing I have to correct a lot of folks on is that hat. Cheech's hat was borrowed from Disney's Sorcerer's Apprentice sequence in Fantasia (1940) & it probably goes further back in occult lore. * Remember The Nickelettes from Underground '73 and '74? Well, those hot girls are doing shows again & if you're around the Bay Area they'll perform at Intersection on March 6 in the evening. 756 Union Street in San Fran. in case you don't know the way. You can even get a Nickelette calendar by writing to 1752 Anza, SF 94118 and saying I'm an insane Nick lover! * The Science Fiction, Horror & Fantasy Con will happen April 8-10 at the Marriott Hotel in L. A. Info from P. O. Box 69157, LA 90069. I'll be down for that shindig. * Phil Yeh and friends have published Jam, a new Album of Fables. 8½x11", color cover, B/W 36pp. $1.85 from Phil at Fragments West, P. O. Box 1128, Los Alamitos, CA 90720.

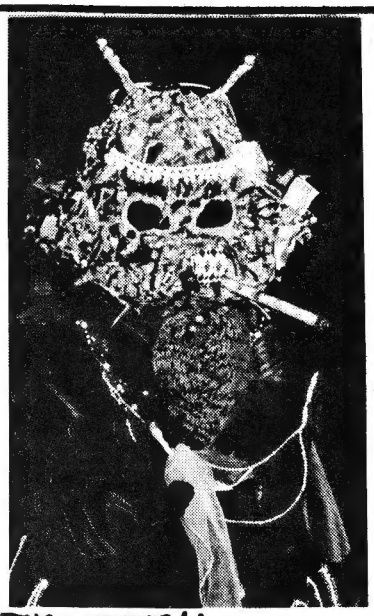
Did you ever consider that it would take a warehouse bigger than Terry Stroud's to store a complete collection of Star Trek triviabilia? Little Tribbles $2, big 'uns $4. Hand-painted buttons $1.25. A sheet of stamps for 50¢. All kinds of space jewelry and dyed t-shirts and uniforms and insignia. You'd think those folks would just join the Air Force and get into the real thing. What, no Star Trek toilet tissue? What about Spockalactics in various space colors? Cosmic dildos? Panties with the Enterprise painted on the crotch? Harlan Ellison knows how to deal with the Trekkies. He came on like a drill sergeant and whipped them into shape, lampooning hell out of the whole scene. His definition of Star Trek: "It's just Starsky and Hutch in space." If he was writing the script for Paramount's Return of Star Trek film: "The first thing I would do would be to kill Kirk off, a horrible lingering death." Guests were beamed on and offstage by transporter, an electronic device invented by Gierak the Great of Concord, California, and Ellison, looking at it, said: "Wouldn't it be funny if their atoms got all scrambled up in space and Kirk came back with Yeoman Rand's body?" "You people wouldn't walk a hundred paces to get Jonas Salk's autograph, but if William Shatner walked in here there would be such a stampede that the little ones down front would be pounded into jelly." Ellison knew his audience. He even read the eulogy he had delivered at his mother's funeral in October of last year and instead of giving him some respectful silence--it was, after all, a serious moment--the Trekkies applauded and whistled.* Robert Heinlein said, "Nothing is so obsolete as the single family dwelling." * Nichelle Nichols (Lt. Uhura), typecast in Star Trek as the others, hadn't worked for a long time after the series ended. She's formed her own production company now to do space films for kids. * George Takei (Lt. Sulu) talked about solar energy, a warm, positive speaker. * We learned that Gene Roddenberry is publishing his rejected film script for the Paramount project as a novel. * Lots of creative costumes and lovely women in the costume contest as you may see from the photos in this issue. * The Berkeley Comic Art Shop moves into bigger space on March 1. New address is 2461 Telegraph, one block closer to UC campus. The store is one of six owned by Comics and Comix, publishers of Dan O'Neill's Comics and Stories and Jack Katz' First Kingdom. C. G.

OTHER WORK BY GUY COLWELL FROM LAST-GASP:
INNER CITY ROMANCE 1-CHOICES-1972-$1.00 POST PAID
INNER CITY ROMANCE 2-RADICAL ROCK-1972-$1.00 "
YOUNG LUST 5-8 PAGE STORY-1977 $1.25 "
BACKWATER BABIES-DRAWINGS-1975 $3.00 "
INCLUDE STATEMENT OF AGE WITH ORDER (MUST BE 18)
LAST GASP P.O.BOX 212 BERKELEY, CA. 94701
PRICES INCLUDE POSTAGE AND HANDLING

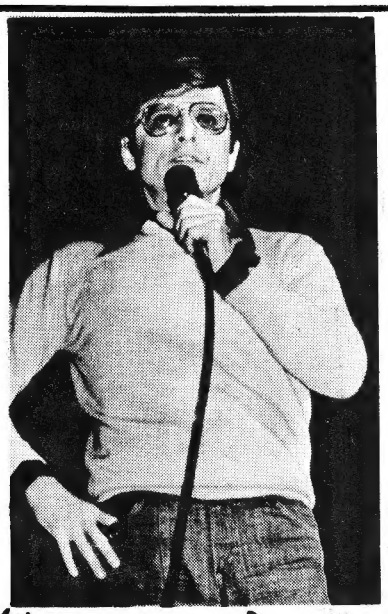
Also Wanted: Original Art, out of print and rare u.g. comix, tabloids, catalogs, flyers, etc. Please state condition . Jerry Tomasiewicz 5405 So. 33 Ave. Omaha, Nebr. 68107

(ANTENNAED WOMEN)

(NICHELLE NICHOLS)



(THE WINNER!)



(HARLAN ELLISON)

(ROBERT HEINLEIN)

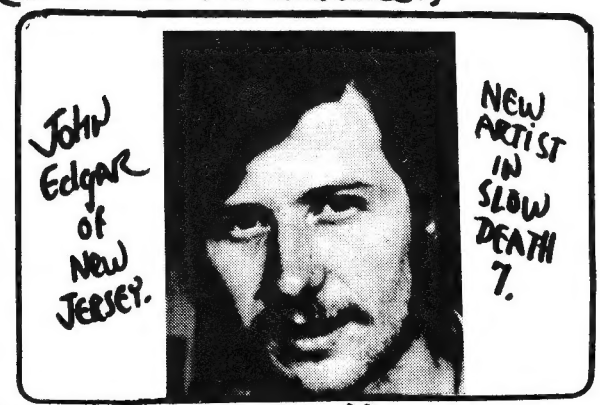
(STURGEON, HEINLEIN, MARTELL, LENARD)

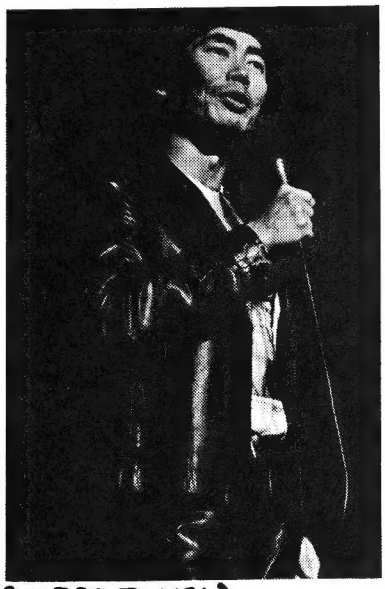
(NO.2. NORTH BEACH DANCER)

(BEAUTY AND THE CREATURE.)

DR. ATOMIC.

(LARRY TODD (WILL ATTEND GOOD TIMES OPEN HOUSE.))





(GEORGE TAKEI)